John Monteleone

Legendary Luthier John Monteleone Will Share His Artistry & Stories July 24-26 at the 4th Annual Monteleone Art of the Guitar Festival

Recognized as being one of the finest living archtop guitar and mandolin makers in the world today, Monteleone has been at the forefront of innovative cutting-edge archtop instrument making for many years. His uniquely designed instruments are the essence of artistic expression, reflected in the subtle but challenging marriage of form and function.

A resident of Islip, New York, Monteleone has been pushing the luthier envelope for more than 40 years with his refreshing passion for new and elegant designs. Producing instruments of great tonal expression is also one of Monteleone's missions in life.

Although Monteleone offers a line of standard high-end instruments he is also well known for his one-of-a-kind extravagantly individualized and prized custom works of playable musical art.

Most recently, Monteleone was honored with an exclusive exhibit Musical Masterworks: John Monteleone's Guitars and Other Instruments at the Long Island Museum in Stony Brook.
