Jazz Loft Summer Camp Offers Unique Experience for Young Musicians, July 22-27

Stony Brook, NY- If there is a young musician in your home looking for a unique experience this summer, then the Loft School of Jazz Summer Camp from July 22-27 may be just the swingin' time they are looking for.

This summer camp program is geared towards providing student musicians a chance to explore jazz through performing, improvising, listening, music theory, and learning about the unique story behind jazz. There is no better place on Long Island to provide access to all these elements of jazz than The Jazz Loft, located at 275 Christian Avenue in Stony Brook.

The LSJ summer camp is a week of fun, playing, learning, and meeting new musicians who love jazz. Special guests arrive to add to the excitement of the week as do the culminating concerts outdoors in the front lawn making it always be a celebratory and fun event. This program is open to students of all instruments and all levels from grades 7-12.

The Loft School of Jazz Summer Camp is led by Chris Donohue, who also heads the Loft's School of Jazz program throughout the school year, and Tom Manuel, the President and Founder of the Jazz Loft.
