

Sam Monteleone

Photo credit Ron Franklin

Samantha (Sam) Monteleone is a musician, as well as a board-certified Music Therapist, who balances her day job serving an ever-expanding range of clients with performing. After gaining her Masters in Music Therapy at NYU, Sam came back to her hometown on Long Island where she could focus on what she loves best: providing music therapy services on Long Island, singing wherever and whenever she could, and spending time with her parents, friends, her partner Mike and her cats as often as possible.

Singing in friends' projects (The Belle Curves, Sarah Gross and the Killjoys, Anne O'Rourke) is a pleasure that has taken her to some really interesting performance and recording spaces. Sam had so much fun sharing the stage with her dad John Monteleone and Steve Salerno in the previous Jazz Loft Workshop, and looks forward to this year among family and friends old and new. Sam has original music under the name featherheart ("When You Sleep" found on all platforms!) and will be releasing new music later this year.